PRESS CONFERENCE QUOTES

Antowyan Aikens—"It's no games. There has been a lot of things that have been said. I worked hard. People look at me as a steppingstone. Anybody who trains and works with him, can not get on the ring with him. Just remember, I can fight! I know the type of support that I have, I put in the work. I am a natural 168-pound fighter, I am not coming up to 140. I want him to bring the fight. I have great boxing skills. I was born with the ability to perform."

DeCarlo Perez—"I am very proud to be on this card. There has been a lot said, but the fight is here. I love this. I come here to fight. I am not responsible for what anyone says on social media. I am very quiet, I let my hands to the talking. I am looking forward to seeing how much of the best that he will bring out in me."

Omar Salem—"I am looking for the knockout. My last fight here was epic."

Isaiah Hart—"I am excited and looking forward to a great fight. This is my pro debut, so now I get to show my talent. This is going to be a great show."

Thomas LaManna—"As a fight fan, this is what boxing needs. I can't wait for this fight."

In the main event, Atlantic City rivals, Antowyan Aikens (13-4-1, 1 K0) and DeCarlo Perez (16-6-1, 5 K0s) will meet for the New Jersey State Super Middleweight title that will take place this Saturday night at The Bourbon Room inside the Showboat Hotel.

In the six-round co-feature, it will be a battle of New Jersey based junior welterweights as John Bauza (10-0, 5 K0s) of North Bergen takes on Rashad Bogar (4-7-1, 2 K0s) of Newark.

In four-round bouts:

Tahlik Taylor (3-11-1, 1 K0) of Greensboro, NC fights Travis Toledo (1-0) of Baltimore, Maryland in a light heavyweight battle.

Ryan Wilczak (6-0, 3 K0s) of Scranton, PA squares off with Alberto Delgado (0-3) of Roanoke, Virginia in a middleweight contest.

Omar Salem (3-0) of Brooklyn New York will fight Mike Anderson (0-2) of Philadelphia in a middleweight fight.
