Douglas of Burke, Virginia is coming off a 1st round stoppage over Jeremy Yelton on March 15th.

Douglas is not an awe of Messi, who sports a record of 37-9-1 with 13 knockouts.

"He has a lot of experience but his opposition was precise and he did not perform against the better opposition," said Douglas.

"All i know that he is 5'7" and I know I have a height and reach advantage."

Douglas gained national recognition when he scored a 8-round unanimous decision over undefeated Marquis Davis on January 17 that shown throughout the country on ShoBox.

"Since the fight on ShoBox, I have been getting a lot of buzz and I feel after two or three more fights, I will be ready for the significant fights that will shape my future," finished Douglas.

Odom of Bowie, Maryland will take on Douglas Otieno Okola (24-8, 12 KO's) of Nairobi, Kenya.

"My training went well," said Odom, who is coming off a 2nd round stoppage of William Gill on March 15.

Despite fighting less than 3 weeks later, Odom is continuing to hit his stride.

"I just made an adjustment to be fighting so soon. I only know that my opponent is a southpaw."

Odom has a perfect knockout streak but unlike most fighters, the early win is not on his mind.

"I don't think about the knockouts. If it happens, it happens. I know I have that talent so the knockouts do not surprise me. I just do my due diligence in the ring. Each fight I look forward to going rounds. I have never underestimate anyone i fight," finished Odom.

Ellison of Newark, NJ will take part in a six round bout against English import and undefeated Iain Weaver (5-0, 3 KO's).

"Everything is good and I am ready to fight," said Ellison.

Ellison has seen very little of Weaver but he knows enough to know what to expect.

"I know he is a southpaw from the United Kingdom. He is a slick boxer that is not very aggressive."

Going into his 12th fight, Ellison knows that the best is yet to come.

“My confidence is growing with each fight. I continue to learn more and more and now I am very comfortable in the ring and I just let my performance speak for itself. Hopefully by the end of the year I will start being in 8 & 10 round fights but that is up to my promoter but I am always in shape. All the hard work, the running the sparring is done. I am just waiting to prove to everybody that I am the best 130-pound fighter in the world,” Finished Ellison.
