

King's Promotions starts busy Spring with multiple recipients at Sunday's Briscoe Awards

Philadelphia, Penn. (March 24, 2018)—King's Promotions kicks off a busy Spring season with the promotional outfit's presence at Sunday's Briscoe Awards.

King's Promotions fighters captured the two most coveted awards as Tyrone Brunson will take home the 2017 Fighter of the Year, while Brunson's memorable battle with Kermit Cintron will be honored as the 2017 Fight of the Year.

The awards are just a prelude to April 6th. That is when rising super middleweight Brandon Robinson takes on Oscar Riojas in the main event of a stacked night of boxing at the 2300 Arena.

Just a week later, on April 13th, Frank De Alba battles O'Shaquie Foster in the main event of a loaded card at the Sands Bethlehem Event Center.

"I am very proud of Tyrone for winning the Fighter of the Year. Also his bout with Kermit is a classic fight, and I am thrilled that King's Promotions played a part in the two biggest awards on Sunday," said King's Promotions CEO Marshall Kauffman. "This is just the beginning of a terrific three week stretch for us as we have two excellent cards in April with competitive and entertaining bouts from top to bottom."